GRAND PIONEER DAY CELEBRATION AT GARLAND.

The celebration of Pioneer Day in Garland was indeed a fitting one in every respect. Everything passed off like clock-work, without the least jar to mar the day's pleasure—no accidents to record. The day, though extremely hot, was an ideal one. Our county was well represented and the city's population considerably increased by the influx of visitors. Everyone had a good time and the attractions kept the crowd on the jump from dawn until midnight to take them all in. The various committees in charge worked like trojans to make it a record-breaker and their efforts were crowned with success. Great credit is due the committees. The Japanese were "there with the goods" and did much in making the day's celebration one long to be remembered, especially by the children. The Japs have a habit of "doing things well" when they go out for a time. Very few representatives of the county seat were in attendance, notwithstanding we gave them an invitation to "Come to Garland where they celebrate right." T. H. Edwards arose with the roosters and did not fail to arouse the town with his "blasted blasts" in rapid succession. Marshal of the day, J. T. Lant, was on deck to hoist the stars and stripes at sunrise, and the Military Band did the rest by taking in the town with a rousing serenade. The band breakfasted—not at a hotel—but at the "Eaton" house, and the royal reception tendered them by Mr. and Mrs. Eaton is worthy of special mention. T. E. Secrist, in a hay-rack decorated with flags, then drove the band around town and to Garland North, to complete the serenade. After their excellent breakfast they were in a shape to give some "fine dope" in the shape of musical stunts.

Our business houses and many of the residences were artistically decorated in national colors for the occasion. The kids were out with their fire crackers and helped to make things noisy.

AT THE AMUSEMENT HALL.

At 10 a. m. the Amusement Hall was packed to its utmost capacity, many standing in the doorways and aisles, unable to find seats. The interior of the hall was tastefully decorated with colored crepe paper and presented a very pleasing and inviting appearance. Pioneers and sons and daughters of pioneers occupied seats at the front.

The following program was carried out:

THE BALL GAME.

The Athletic Park drew the crowd at 2 p. m. in a matched game of ball between the Box Elder Champions and Fielding's Frisky Flints. The grand stand was unable to accommodate the vast throng in attendance and many stood up in the hot sun, rather than miss the game. The game was delayed nearly two hours, owing to Fielding's Hyde Park pitcher failing to arrive on time. A shower of rain cooled the atmosphere and settled the dust before the words "play ball" were announced. During the interval, the Japanese amused the crowd with a fine display of day fireworks that kept the boys busy chasing the flags, fish, air ships and various tissue shapes that were thrown from the explosives. Some very pretty tissue figures were floated in mid-air after each rocket burst and were soon gathered in by the children as souvenirs. The fireworks fortification was tastefully decorated with Japanese and American flags.

Garland succeeded in adding another game to her long list of victories. It was a good game and was a clutch for neither team until along toward the latter part of the game when Garland took a big lead which she held until the game was finished. Garland secured a run in each of the first three innings, but Fielding was unable to land a runner upon home cushion until the third inning, when by a series of safe hits helped along by a few errors on the part of the home boys, they brought in four large and juicy runs. At this juncture of the game, enthusiasm ran high and the roosters from the town to the north, yelled themselves hoarse in appreciation of their home team. The Fielding team certainly were backed by a good, healthy crowd of roosters, who let pass no opportunity of cheering their sturdy bunch of ball tossers. The lusty cheers of the Fielding fans availed them nothing, however, for in the fourth the home boys clouted out the ball to a tune of four fat ones which put them well in the lead; a lead which they maintained to the end. Fielding need have no reason to be ashamed of their base ball team, for every man on it is able to give a good account of himself. The work of Scott Turner on short for the visiting nine and the stick work of Wallis, for the home boys were probably the only features of the game worthy of special mention. Howard pitched a good, steady game of ball. The line-up was as follows:

FIELDING		GARLAND
Stayner	c	Featherstone
Christensen	p	Evans, H.
Welling	1b	Wallis
Richards	2b	Campbell
Watkins	3b	Pettingill
Turner	ss	Schaffer
Wood	rf	Hall
Clark	lf	Gleason
Pearl	cf	Van Leuvan

Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Total
Garland	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	11
Fielding	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	6

Umpire, Evans; Scorer, Eaton

The second game between Fielding and Garland is to be played on the home grounds this afternoon at 4:30 p. m., as Fielding is not entirely convinced that Garland can hand them another bunch. That's right, Fielding, make them show you.

FREE DRINKS.

A "free for all" booth, where all kinds of summer drinks were served to the public generally, was conducted by a force of handsome young Japs and the generous and liberal way they dealt it out, certainly deserves special note.

CHILDREN'S SPORTS.

After the ball game the children's sports began and over $95 in prizes was distributed to the children by the committee in charge.

THE RACES.

The new race course, just west of town, was lined up on both sides with teams and spectators to witness the racing events.

The first event was a 400-yard dash between J. Y. Rich's sorrel and Fife Bros. brown mare for a purse of $80. Large side-bets were also made. The first dash was called off owing to the horses not being tapped off. The sorrel, however, came out a length ahead. In the next trial the sorrel was an easy winner, coming in ahead by a 50 foot lap. The backers of the Fife horse attributed the defeat to the soft condition of the track, as the brown mare is accustomed to a hard road-bed. A. J. Fife rode the brown mare and Earnest Walker was the jockey for the sorrel. The judges were T. E. Secrist and Ezra Harris.

Following this, some practice stunts were indulged in by Rhodes Bros. of East Garland.

The next race was a 400-yard dash between J. Y. Rich's sorrel mare, Jensen Bros.' bay horse, Rhodes' horse and John Olson's blue mare, for a purse of $10. Jensen's horse came in ahead followed close behind by the Rich mare, Rhodes horse coming 3rd and the blue mare bringing up the rear. The surprise given the spectators by the Jensen horse winning out, soon worked up another race to take place in thirty days, between the Rich sorrel and Jensen's bay. A forfeit of $50 was put up and the race will be run on the same track within thirty days for a purse of $100.

The last race was between Fielding's and Plymouth's buck-skins and resulted in defeat for Plymouth's horse.

All the above events were interesting and the racing sports were well pleased with the program.

"Who Can? We Can Can Garland."

Garland has no cannery but may have some day, and when we do we trust that we will make a better success of canning than Brigham did on July 14th 1906.

The "News" evidently, does not know what constitutes batting in a base ball game, as it states: "No one distinguished himself above his fellow; no sensational plays were made; every hit by Garland was a little anty just over the in-field, but too far in to be handled by the out-field." We think that if the News will consult with Mr. Stephens, Mgr. of the Brigham team, he would advise them that he would like some similar batting done by his own team.
